

Easy Crossword - Veterinary Medicine Day

Complete the crossword puzzle below

Across

2. Parasites are “freeloaders” that live in or on another creature. ____ are the most common external parasite found on animals
7. The process of exposing animals to caring human contact is known as ____.
8. How many compartments does a cows stomach have?
9. The study of animal behavior is referred to as ____.
13. What is the name of a viral disease that affects animals, and can also be transmitted to humans?
14. What is the term used to describe the procedure when a veterinarian smooths or contours a horses teeth with a file?
15. What is the name of the surgical procedure used to prevent a female animal from becoming pregnant?
17. ____ have no bones, but instead have skeletons made of cartilage. Cartilage is tough and fibrous but not as hard as bone.
18. Broncho-oesophageal artery is found in what species?
19. Toxic nut for dogs
21. A dog disease easily spread at facilities where canines congregate. Similar to a cold, spread by direct contact or airborne
23. What are the common behaviour problems with pets?
24. What is used to describe a disease that can be transmitted to both humans and animals?

Down

1. Flooding an animal with the stimulus that causes the behavior problem is ____.
3. At about what age will this kitten have all of her deciduous (baby) teeth?
4. A viral disease of dogs, marked by fever and respiratory problems
5. What contagious skin condition leaves small circular patches of bare skin?
6. How often should 'indoor only' cats visit a veterinarian?
10. A toxic fruit to dogs
11. What a female ferret is called
12. Although dogs do sweat through the pads of their feet, ____ is the best way for them to cool down.
16. ____ smooths out the microabrasions that are formed by scaling. This makes it harder for bacteria to cling to a tooth.
17. How many hours a day does a cat sleep?
20. Cheyletiellosis, also called walking dandruff, is a highly contagious skin disease of cats caused by ____.
22. A ____ and it can transmit Lyme disease to pets and people. Pets should be protected against these year round.

